

How to be sure that your application will be taken into consideration?

Seconded positions are positions which are reserved to persons working in their country as law enforcement officials or any other national administrations that have AGREED to second their staff members to INTERPOL for a specific period. The national administration will bear the seconded officials' salary, benefits and removal expenses.

In order to verify your eligibility for a seconded position, you must first contact the INTERPOL National Central Bureau (NCB) in the country from which you hope to be seconded.

Applications including a printed version of the on-line INTERPOL Application Form, a Curriculum Vitae and a covering letter should be sent to the INTERPOL National Central Bureau (NCB) in the country from which you hope to be seconded. Once the National Central Bureau (NCB) decides to endorse your application, it will send it with a covering note to the INTERPOL HR Sub-Directorate.
